

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The records of OSMA date from 1881 to the present and document the activities of Oberlinians in Asia during that period. Earlier records discuss missionary activities of the Oberlin Band such as evangelism, teaching, medical work, and the operation of opium refuges in the Shansi province of northern China. The bulk of these records, however, deal with the education activities of OSMA, which was formed as a living memorial to those Oberlin missionaries who died in the Boxer Rebellion of 1900.

Administrative and financial records of the OSMA from 1908-1981 document the founding and operations of primary and middle schools, and later a college, in Shansi. Extensive correspondence and numerous reports provide insight into the lives of the Chinese people in this era and the lives of American men and women living and working in China. These people observed first hand and regularly reported on political events and social issues in China, from the founding of the Nationalist government, to the invasion by the Japanese and the ensuing Sino-Japanese War, and to the eventual triumph of communist forces, ending American diplomatic relations and thus OSMA's work in China. Major correspondents include H. H. Kung, Mark Wu, Lydia Lord Davis, Wynn C. Fairfield, and Herbert Van Meter. Photographs, negatives, slides, and audio tapes provide extensive visual documentation of the time and place. A selection of glass lantern slides have been highlighted and described on an addendum page. Student essays and art work of very high quality provide the Chinese perspective.

Records from 1950 to the present trace the secularization of OSMA and document the transformation of its programs to an emphasis on two-way exchange of students and scholars. Administrative correspondence offers a look at the role of cultural exchange in both higher education and international relations (and vice versa). Extensive correspondence with both American and Asian students and scholars paints a detailed picture of the impact of cultural exchange on the individual.

In 2008 OSMA celebrated its centennial, sparking an influx of materials donated by former representatives and others associated with Shansi. Most of the materials are audiovisual, including films, photographs, photograph albums, audio recordings, scrolls, currency, and other artifacts primarily from the 1920s through the 1940s, with some later materials. In 2012 director Carl Jacobson retired; from his office a significant amount of material dating from the 1980s to 2012 enlarged the collection, particularly the audiovisual subgroup.

PROVENANCE

Records of the Oberlin Shansi Memorial Association were acquired in fourteen lots between 1967 and 1991. Margaret Leonard directed the transfer of files from the OSMA office to the Archives in 1967, 1981, twice in 1987, twice in 1988, and twice in 1990. One lot of photographs arrived in 1991. Ellsworth Carlson transferred files in 1985. Carl Jacobson and Peg Leonard directed the transfer of the accessions in 1990. Four lots came from the Oberlin College Library in 1968, 1972, 1976, and 1987.

Seventeen more accessions were received from the OSMA office in accessions 1996/098 1997/068, 1997/80, 1997/088, 1997/089, 1998/87, 1999/34, 1999/70, 2000/51, 2000/67, and 2000/80, 2000/112, 2001/005, 2001/039, 2001/065, 2001/093, and 2002/015. In 1998, 0.4 linear feet of records were transferred from the papers of President Starr. Additional material was transferred from the Oberlin College Library, Special Collections, in 2001 (2001/094).

Additional transfers from OSMA occurred in the years between 2004 and 2012. In 2008, the centennial of Shansi's founding, 18.83 linear feet of material donated by former Shansi representatives, fellows and other personnel was transferred from the OSMA office after the centennial celebration. These materials comprised scrapbooks, photograph albums, loose photographs, films, videotapes, audio recordings, objects, correspondence and miscellaneous paper materials. The scrapbook on Oberlin's Gamelan was given to Shansi by Molly Johnson, former assistant to president Nancy S. Dye, transferred to Archives in accession 2008/039. In 2011 a digital project funded by the Mellon Foundation, "Shansi: Oberlin and Asia," encompassed the professional transfer of sixteen films to Betacam and DVDs for preservation and public access [accession number 2011/039]. In 2012 Shansi Director Carl W. Jacobson retired from his position, held since 1981; over twelve linear feet of material was received in October that year (2012/054). The Japanese government signboard of 1868 was given to the College's Religion Department by Jerome Davis in 1916; it was transferred to the Archives in 2014. The two special editions of the China Press in Subgroup VIII, Series 7 were transferred from the Library; the 1936 edition was assigned OBIS number DS774 .C4 1936. Former director Carl Jacobson speculated that these might have been brought to Oberlin by H. H. Kung on one of his many visits during that period.

The lantern slides of Professor George D. Hubbard (Geology) were brought into this collection from the general lantern slide collection in 2017. In 2019 additional files were received from the OSMA office.

Item list for box 5:

1. Portrait of Lydia Lord Davis and Alice Moon Williams seated with each of their children. ca. 1901-04 (3x4)

According to Carl Jacobson, the creation of this image occurred soon after Davis and Williams had lost their husbands in the Boxer Rebellion. It appears that the 3x4 slide is a copy of framed photograph, which Oberlin College Archives does not hold. The hand-colored image has faded over time, and is in fair overall condition. (neg. 3162)

2. Lydia Lord Davis in Horse Cart. ca. 1890-96 (3x4)

Portrays Lydia Lord Davis in a Horse Cart with three children. The latter cannot be identified. The slide is showing signs of chemical degradation and fading. (copy neg. 3163)

3. "Mrs. [Lydia Lord] Davis, her school girl's & native helpers... Presbyt. School." ca. 1890-96 (3x4)

In this portrait of Lydia Lord Davis are unidentified men, women, and children assistants. The image is in good condition. Lydia wears a "Mother Hubbard" dress -- a popular style of maternity dress in the United States in the late nineteenth century (the sleeves on this one indicate 1890s. Lydia was pregnant in 1890, 1893, 1894, 1896, and 1897). (copy neg. 3161)

4. "Yu Tao He Valley, Shansi." ca. 1924-26 (3x4)

A beautifully hand-colored image of the favorite summer retreat of Shansi reps, pre-1937. While the image of Yu Tao He Valley exists in other formats, this rendition is unique. The slide is in excellent condition. This stream was destroyed by the Japanese in the late 1930s. (copy neg. 3160)

5. "Miss [Gertrude M.] Cheney Arriving on Peking Cart." ca. 1934-36 (3x4)

This hand-colored slide of Cheney atop a mule-drawn cart piled high with luggage exemplifies a mode of Chinese transportation during the 1930s. (copy neg. 3159)

6. "Mr. and Mrs. [Paul L.] Corbin's Caravan Welcomed by Mrs. [Winifred] Hemingway to Taiku 1905, Miss [Flora] H[e]bner Behind." (3x4)

This beautifully hand-colored slide depicts the arrival procession of the Corbins to Shansi. The visibility of surrounding landscape, Chinese assistants, and the popular fashions of 1905 make this slide interesting. (copy neg. 3157)

7. "Mr. [Hsiang-hsi] Kung in Policeman's Dress." ca. 1920s (3x4)
Kung Hsiang-hsi is an Oberlin graduate who had been a student in one of the mission schools in Taigu. He escaped to the U.S. after the Boxer Rebellion, but eventually returned to Taigu in 1908 and founded Ming Hsien -- the school built in the Flower Garden. (copy neg. 3158)

8. "The Two Heroes of Cathay: Fay and Kung." ca. 1908-15 (3x4)
This formal portrait depicts a seated Fay and a standing Kung. Fay Chi ho had been a fellow teacher and friend of Kung's at the Shansi schools. When many of Fay's family and friends were martyred, he followed Kung to the U.S. and attended Oberlin College. Chemical deterioration and cracks in the glass currently threaten this image. (neg. 3165)

9. "Martyred Missionaries Graves, Taikuhsien." ca. 1902-1910 (3x4)
This richly hand-colored slide depicts the final resting place of the missionaries killed in the Boxer Rebellion. The slide remains in excellent condition. (neg. 3156)
